EDMONTON, ALBERTA, SATURDAY, AUGUST 21st, 1886.

No. 42.

TELEGRAPHIC.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 18, 1886.

Sir John arrives on the 23rd and leaves on the 26th.

Arrangements are being forwarded for a conservative convention here on the 25th.

It is now officially announced that Egan will become superintendent of the Manitoba road on September 1st.

Messrs. Mowat and Blake are making a tour through Eastern Canada. Preparations are being made at all leading points for their reception.

Hon. Messrs. Bowell and Foster passed through the city for the Pacific coast yesterday morning. They will be gone three weeks. The object of the visit is the locating of light houses and enquiring into the Pacific cod fisheries.

An Indian Head despatch of yesterday says: "The police have been here since the robbery at Rigby's last Thursday, and on Monday arrested Fred Fishleigh and Thomas Watt on suspicion. The police had gathered sufficient evidence to criminate Fishleigh, who is only sixteen, and when confronted with the masks, clothes, etc., confessed, giving the name of his accomplice as one Hugh McIntyre who lives in Qu'Appelle Valley near here. The police caught McIntyre last night."

WINNIPEG, August 20, 1886.

The head millers' association of Minneapolis visited Ottawa to-day.

The commons election for Haldimand, Ont., will be held on September 8th.

A satisfactory test was made yesterday with anthracite coal from the Cascade mines.

T. A. McKinnon, general superintendent of the Manitoba South-western has been appointed successor to Egan. The appointment is believed to be a good one.

Graham the cooper again navigated the whirlpool rapids yesterday with his head protruding from the barrel. Jamie Scott, a fisherman of Lewiston, attempted to swim the rapids in a cork outfit and was drowned.

The Irish national league is in session in Chicago. A good deal of firey talk is being indulged in despite the efforts of Davitt to suppress it. One proposition made is to boycott the goods of English manufacturers.

The Portage la Prairie town council and all the officials resigned yesterday in consequence of the financial condition of the town. There is some talk of the Manitoba North-western relieving the town of its indebtedness to the company and bringing the road to Winnipeg.

Sir John is at Regina to-day and will arrive at Brandon this afternoon where he will remain over night. To-morrow he will go over the Manitoba North-western and arrive in Winnipeg Sunday morning. He has declined a banquet and torchlight procession for which preparations had been made. If at all possible he will deliver an address at the conservative convention on Wednesday, and leave for Ottawa on Thursday.

George Garnet of the South Branch Settlement was arrested at Prince Albert on the night of the 18th for the mail robbery near Humboldt on July 17th. Garnet is known to have been in the vicinity of the mail robbery at the time of its occurrence, and to have a double-barrelled shot gun, and also a horse answering to the description of the horse the robber had. Garnet was examined yesterday and identified on the evidence of Swanston and party, the mail driver and Betts. He was committed for trial and will be sent to Regina.

The imperial parliament opened yesterday. The Queen's speech indicated that nothing but essential business will be disposed of. In the course of the debate Gladstone said he had not changed his views on the Irish question. Churchill said the government had decided not to adopt coercion, but would preserve order in Ireland. The land act of 1881 would be adopted and a royal commission would enquire into Irish industries. The question of local government for all three kingdoms would be enquired into, but the union would be maintained. There was something of a dynamite scare over a mysterious package in the desk of one of the clerks of the Irish members, which after being carefully removed was found to contain certain bolts used as missiles in the Belfast riots.

Low fever at Battleford has increased to the extent of a calamity. Fifty men are down in the police barracks, including Dr. Miller who is delirious; also Hugh Richardson, telegraph operator. Many of the townspeople are also down. Only two deaths, but a number of patients are very low. Dr. Rolph, police surgeon is on his way in.

The self-binders with which the district is well supplied, having over twenty, are putting the grain into shape for stacking with a neatness and despatch that a few years ago was impossible, and which by lessening the length of the harvest makes it possible to cut the grain just at the proper time.

THE EDMONTON BULLETIN is published every Saturday morning, at the office, Main street, Edmonton. Subscription—Two Dollars per annum. Advertising rates—Standing advertisements, two dollars a line per annum; transient advertisements, ten cents a line for first insertion and five cents a line for each subsequent insertion. FRANK OLIVER, proprietor.

EDMONTON BULLETIN, AUG. 21, 1886.

THE Qu'Appelle Progress, which has some claims to being considered an organ of both federal and local governments, says: "It has been decided that there will not be an election here till the general contest throughout the Dominion. As a matter of policy this may be considered a wise one from a party standpoint; the idea being as the Progress explains at length that 'side issues and sectional feelings might cause the elections to result in such a manner as to have an undue influence on the general elections in the east.' That the North-West might lose as much as it would gain by having two federal elections in consecutive years is possible, but what party gain is likely to accrue from keeping the people out of their acknowledged rights is a mystery. If the government is unable to carry the North-West now, by admitting fear and depriving the people of representation on that account, they are building an excellent case against themselves for next year. At the present time there might be a difficulty about securing representatives who would vote with the government once when right and twice when wrong, but on the other hand there is little danger of a partisan opponent being elected, and a year's delay may not improve matters. From a party standpoint, if the government really desire to govern the North-West in the interests of its people, it would be well to bring on the North-West elections one session before the general election so that the experience of the North-West members might be turned to account in framing a solid North-West policy for use in the general elections. If, however, the mind of the government is made up not to meet the views of the people of the North-West it probably is best to stave off representation as long as possible. The fact that an election has been held lately in Chambly and another is to be held in Haldimand effectively disposes of the argument that the public interest does not require the election of North-West representatives for the one session preceeding the general election. What is sauce for the Chambly and Haldimand goose is or ought to be sauce for the North-West gander.

The eastern papers are full of comments on the Chambly election. Chambly is a Quebec constituency close to Montreal which has a considerable English speaking vote and whose late conservative member was elected by a majority of nearly 600. Hon. Mr. Chapleau who heads the resistance to the Rielite agitation thought to show by this constituency that the Rielites had not the hold upon the French population that they claimed. He therefore appointed the Chambly M. P. to a government sit, leaving the constituency open for an election, which was brought on forthwith. Every possible power was brought to bear to elect the government candidate, with the result that the Rielite candidate, alderman Prefontaine of Montreal was elected by nearly 100 majority. This is universally taken to mean that Quebec is hopelessly lost to the government; and now the party organs appear to be as desirous of using the Riel scaffold for the party platform in Ontario as their opponents have been in Quebec, demanding the support of former opponents because—be cause—they have lost the support of former friends. Possibly the government may be a good government; possibly the people of Quebec are opposing it on unreasonable grounds; but when a government which is nothing if not national attempts to retain its hold on power by arousing through its newspaper organs sectional and even religious animosity its usefulness is seriously impaired if not altogether gone. The government that granted a free pardon to Poundmaker, Dumont and dozens of others, some of them apparently with the purpose of directly influencing this Chambly election, is not in a position to successfully make political capital out of the hanging of their accomplice—even if that had not been to influence a portion of the Ontario vote. If the people of Quebec have been unreasonable in their demands regarding the life of Riel, who taught them to be unreasonable but those who for so many years have held power on their sufferance? Having taught the lesson so well they should not now grumble at its application.

MAJOR-GEN. STRANGE who commanded the Alberta field forces in the campaign of last summer writes to La Presse of Montreal that the alleged report of the operations of his column appearing in the militia report over his signature is not the full report furnished by him, and that the omissions pervert the facts in matters concerning the reputation of his men and of himself. Also that the British government has docked him half a year's pension for the time he was employed in active service by the Canadian government. What excuse can be given or defence offered for such an outrage by the authorities in compiling the report, which, as the general remarks, "must become the basis of history," it would be interesting to know. It could not have been lack of space, for in the same book which omits all mention of the Loon lake fight and garbles the account of that at Frenchman's Butte, full particulars are given of the organization of a company of home guards and the erection of a fort at Yorkton, Assa., where the only hostiles seen were two old squaws and the only active service consisted in reading the riot act or something of the kind to the said squaws and then presenting them with a chunk of bacon apiece as an inducement to them to disperse. The action at Loon lake in which a mixed force of police and scouts seventy strong, encumbered with their horses in a wooded country so that they had not more than fifty men in the fighting line, surprised and routed Big Bear's force of not less than 200 fighting men, who fled leaving their camp and dead in the hands of the police and scouts, was surely as worthy of mention as the exploits of the Yorkton home guards. It is worth while remembering the Indians defeated by Steele's force were the same band that Gen. Middleton a few days afterwards, although accompanied by several hundred mounted men, a cannon and a Gatling, refused to follow more than a few miles further, thereby abandoning a number of prisoners to their fate. That the action at Loon lake was one of the most brilliant of the campaign must be admitted, and there are people who believe that it was the only one with a good claim to that title, and that the reason of its omission from the report was because it was fought under General Strange instead of under Gen. Middleton.

LOCAL.

Two old country Frenchmen, were recently robbed of $300 by highwaymen, while camped near High river, between Calgary and MacLeod. They had $3,000 besides but the robbers did not get it.

THE Montreal Trade Bulletin notes an advance in beaver fur to $3.50 and $4 a pound, and in lynx to $3 and $4 per skin. It considers the advance merely temporary and of an entirely speculative nature.

JAS. McMILLAN & Co., fur dealers of Minneapolis say that during the hot weather furs are always bought at low prices. They have ceased quoting furs in their trade circular for the summer. They add, however, that they can pay high prices for beaver at all times.

THE police force is now distributed throughout the territories as follows: Maple Creek and outpost, 105 men; Medicine Hat, 14 men; Wood Mountain and outposts, 100 men; Fort MacLeod, 113 men; Battleford, 200 men; Edmonton, 88 men; Prince Albert, 92 men; Calgary, 82 men; Lethbridge, 100, and Regina, 127 men respectively, forming a total of 1,016.

THE Montreal Gazette has a correspondent doing the Saskatchewan country from Battleford westward. In dealing with the country in general and the Indians in particular he hits the nail squarely on the head. He has a faculty of acquiring the truth and then telling it, seldom equalled by newspaper correspondents. At last accounts he was on the way to Pitt and Edmonton.

THE minister of interior in an interview with a Regina deputation as reported in the Leader said that "the government would allow three years from this time for the payment of pre-emptions, without interest, a third to be paid each year. This was final." He also refused to allow volunteer land warrants to be used by purchasers in payment for their pre-emptions already taken.

A CIRCULAR from the territorial board of education states that at a meeting of the board in Regina on July 29th it was decided that no examination of candidates for teacher's certificates will be held until the second Tuesday in January next. The work assigned for examination in English literature for a first-class certificate is Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice, and for a second-class certificate Scott's Lady of the Lake.

THE report of starvation along the Labrador coast turns out to have been slightly inaccurate. It appears that there is no blockade of snow or icebergs, there is no scarcity of fish, game or provisions, and there are not 1,500 people along the whole coast to suffer from starvation, much less 15,000. If the Canadian papers depended more on themselves and less on their neighbors for their home news they would not have been subjected to this unmerciful hoax.

COMMISSIONER PEARCE is expected to arrive on Monday to hear appeals against the decisions of the Land Board rendered as a result of his first visit. While the time of year is most inopportune, harvest and having being on at once making it very difficult for farmers to attend, the action of the interior department in allowing cases in which complaints have been made to be re-opened is to be highly commended. Those who have not already agreed to the late decisions should not lose this opportunity to secure their rights. If they do not embrace the opportunity thus afforded them of stating their cases they can scarcely expect the department to extend further leniency towards them.

On the eve of Sgt.-Major Bradley's departure from Fort Saskatchewan he was presented with a complimentary address and purse by the non-commissioned officers and men of G division of police. The position of Sgt.-major is probably the most difficult in the force to fill with satisfaction to those below as well as above in rank. This expression of opinion by the former must be most pleasing to the Sgt.-Major, and is conclusive evidence as to his having discharged the duties of his difficult position properly from their point of view; while there is no reason to doubt that his superiors have been equally pleased with the way in which he has caused their orders to be fulfilled. When promotions are next in order it is to be hoped that Sgt.-Major Bradley will not be forgotten.

SINCE their return from Calgary the police seem to have discarded the scarlet coat for all ordinary duty and adopted the brown fatigue jacket—a most sensible change. The red coat may have been something to conjure by at one time, but that time is past, and now it only serves to make the wearer conspicuous for attack or avoidance as his opponent may choose. To dress men in scarlet for duty on the plains against Indians or bad whites is to a great extent to destroy their usefulness, while to put them into Indian fighting is little short of murder. With scarlet coats, white helmets and gauntlets and bang-tailed horses a squad of police look like a missing link of a circus procession rather than a fighting and generally useful force: while the brown jackets and caps or hats and bare hands look like solid business, and give the policeman at least equal chances with his adversary.

LOCAL.

The success of the conservative party in Britain has had a good effect on the fishery dispute between Canada and the States. The people of the United States fully expect now that Britain will back up Canada, and so do not want either fish or gore as much as they did.

A NUMBER of Indians of this agency who were overlooked in the first distribution of rewards for loyalty during the rebellion are now receiving them. They include chief Iron Head of Lac Ste Anne, and several of Alexander and Michel's bands at Riviere Qui Barre.

A HAIL storm on Saturday night last destroyed some crop for Jas. Price of Little Mountain, A. Mowat of the Lower Settlement and W. Keith of Clover Bar. The damage is not great. This is the only hail storm of the season that has damaged crop in this settlement.

ON Wednesday morning E. Rayner, representing McIntyre & Davidson, jewelers, Calgary, Sgt.-Major Bradley of G division police, going east on three months' leave of absence, and constable Heron of the same division, transferred to MacLeod left for Calgary with V. Anderson.

J. B. TYRRELL of the geological survey arrived from Pitt on Monday evening with his party. He went down to Pitt by skiff and came back by the old Pitt and Edmonton trail on the south side. He will spend some weeks in the Beaver hills and then go up the river by land and return by boat.

THREE interments have already been made in the new cemetery, an infant grandchild of G. Donald and two children of Philip Tate. The plot has not yet been subdivided. This should be done without delay to avoid confusion. Geo. Overy acts as sexton for the present, but no permanent appointment has been made.

A DETACHMENT of five police arrived from Fort Saskatchewan on Wednesday to form an escort for Thursday's stage, owing to rumors of suspicious characters having been seen along the Bow river trail. As the rumors turned out to be without foundation and the driver apprehended no danger the men returned to Fort Saskatchewan on Thursday.

ON Thursday night by some means a cow got under a raft moored at Fraser & Co's mill, and in the morning was found with its nose above water between the logs about the middle of the raft, alive. The mill hands passed a rope under the raft and around her horns, and succeeded in dragging her out from under the raft without serious damage.

THE hearing of the cases of the claimants to the Banff hot springs by Mr. Pearce has been concluded and the evidence been passed to the minister of interior for decision. The Ottawa Journal says that the government by their action in reserving the springs for sale will have to adjust the claims of one or two persons whose pretensions to having discovered the springs are very good.

P. BRUNETTE's four horse team nearly came to grief on Tuesday last. It had just arrived from Calgary loaded with ammunition for Norris & Carey and was driven down the hill to the ferry without the wheels of the wagon being locked. The shock of the wagon striking the ferry tore it loose from its moorings and horses and wagon went into the drink, the former until they were swimming deep and the latter until the powder cans began to float around. After a good deal of hard work horses, wagon and load were got on dry land not much the worse.
